(Book). The creator of the unforgettable "Girl from Ipanema" tenor sax tone, this son of Ukranian immigrants took his unique sound through five decades of swing, cool, bossa and beyond. From Getz's teenage gigs with Dorsey, Goodman and Stan Kenton, fame with Woody Herman, years as a masterful bandleader, and struggles with drugs and the law, this biography tells the bittersweet story of one of our most beloved jazz musicians. This is the first book to focus on Getz's musical legacy, exploring the lightness of touch, lyricism and warm glow that marked his sound. It also gives insight into his skills as a consummate improviser, capable of playing with a musical, tonal and emotional range matched by few other musicians. "We'd all sound like that if we could." John Coltrane on Stan Getz

Wow!

By I. Ranovos

This book about Stan Getz was written by Dave Gelly, an award-winning British jazz critic whose other career -- get this -- is playing tenor sax. I ordered it the instant I finished the author's biography of Lester Young. I play tenor sax myself (albeit not professionally), and devoured both works with the greatest delight; I especially appreciated the author's analysis of so many of their solos. Mr Gelly, if you are reading this: please please PLEASE keep the saxophone player biographies coming.
