A true classic

By jayslin

I loved the heroine. Smart, clumsy and adorable. There were a few laugh out loud moments in the book. It's wonderful to read a romance that has all the right elements put together. A good read!!!!

Yummy Scientist seeks Goofy Girl!

By Carol Storm

Keir Traherne was a grumpy scientist buried away in the African jungle for years and years, working on some sort of boring scientific project. The last thing he wanted was a long-legged girl photographer like Poppy mucking about, taking pictures and turning all the boys' heads. But the more firmly Keir tried to put Poppy in her place, the more often they bumped together, rubbing against each other in his jeep or on the jungle trails, arguing and fighting until their lips just kept locking in those long, hot, embarrassing kisses!

If you're the romantic type at all, this is the perfect read for a long hot bath, or when you're lying in bed with a box of chocolates on a cold rainy night. I loved it!

The Trouble With Love

By Ali

Back cover reads:

"You're the distracting type," he said

Coming from any other man it would have been a compliment. Poppy was perfectly aware, however, that Dr. Keir Traherne definitely wasn't flirting with her.

Keir made it clear he wanted no distractions while they worked to save the West African rain forest. And that was fine with Poppy--she'd been hired as the project's photographer. It was a job that she loved and one that would take all of her time.

But that didn't stop her from wishing she could replace cool, immaculate Astrid, the assistant Keir kept constantly by his side. And it didn't stop Poppy from regretting that Keir thought of her only in terms of trouble!
